

Australian Government

LEARN MORE

Ehrlichiosis in your dog can be fatal

The best protection is through tick control

You can help prevent this potentially fatal tick-borne disease in your dog:

- Inspect your dog daily for ticks
- Have your dog on a tick control program
- Where possible, avoid tick infested areas
- Have any tick infestations in your house or yard managed by a pest controller
- Contact your vet if your dog is showing signs of ehrlichiosis such as fever, lethargy, and appetite loss.

Go to agriculture.gov.au/ehrlichiosis to learn more.