Help transform agricultural exporting

Sign up for user research to test new digital services

Your involvement could inform:

Updates to the Export Service, a single account to manage exporting needs.

Decisions about exporting systems, processes and regulation.

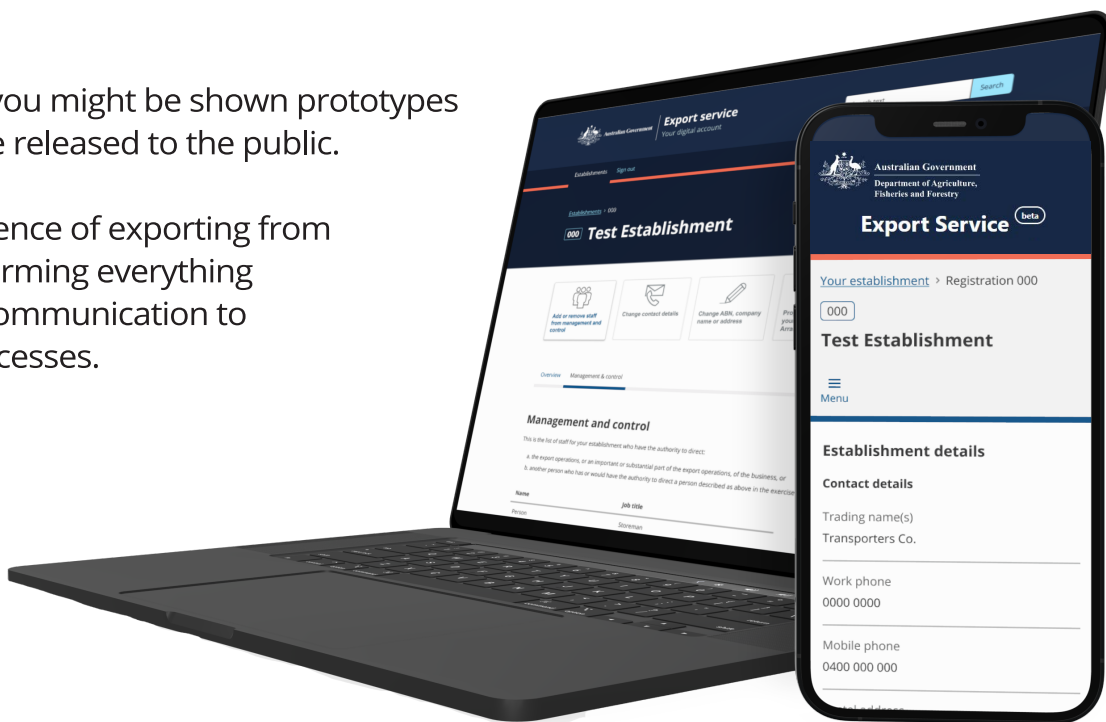

Reductions in time and money needed to get agricultural goods overseas.

Signing up also means you might be shown prototypes and ideas before they're released to the public.

Modernising the experience of exporting from Australia means transforming everything from certification and communication to regulation tech and processes.
