BE A JUNIOR BIOSECURITY OFFICER

It is nice to bring home a souvenir to remember your great holiday, but we need to make sure it is safe to bring to Australia.

Exotic pests and diseases can come from things you bring back from overseas holidays. They can also come in parcels that your friends and family send to Australia in the mail.

Some items are not allowed into the country. This includes some food and things made from plants and animals, seeds and soil.

If you are travelling, biosecurity officers will be at the airport and other places to help you.

Tell your friends and family what they should not send to Australia.
