

The Department of Agriculture, Fisheries and Forestry is a great place to work.

Make a valuable contribution to protecting Australia's natural resources, developing strong agricultural industries and delivering policies and programs for a strong economy.

We employ a diversity of people from a wide range of scientific disciplines, including agricultural and environmental sciences, to make a difference in protecting Australia's biosecurity.

Check out our opportunities and apply for careers in biosecurity

